Saying what someone likes

We use the following phrases below to say what someone likes.
Remember: "you formal" is someone you do not speak to on a first name basis.

me gusta = I like te gusta = you like le gusta = he, she, you (formal) like nos gusta = we like os gusta = you all like (Spain only) les gusta = they, you all like

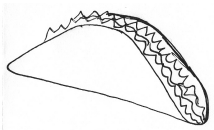
Examples:

- Me gusta la sopa. — I like the soup.
- Te gusta la sopa. — You like the soup.
- Le gusta el pan. — He, she, you (f) like the bread.
- Nos gusta el flan. — We like the flan.
- Os gusta el pollo. — You all like the chicken.
- Les gusta el menú. — They or you all like the menu.

Now look at these and see if you notice something different:

- Me gustan los tacos. — I like the tacos.
- Te gustan los tacos. — You like the tacos.
- Le gustan los frijoles. — He, she, you (f) like the beans.
- Nos gustan los frijoles. — We like the beans.
- Os gustan las pizzas. — You all like the pizzas.
- Les gustan las sopas. — They or you all like the soups.



Did you figure out what's different?

If you guessed that gusta changed to gustan when talking about more than one item, you were correct!
