

Handy Materials to Have on Hand for Class Use Spanish for You!

I thought it would be helpful to give teachers and parents a list of materials handy to have on hand when using Spanish for You!. You should find these items sufficient for doing just about any game or activity in the Spanish for You! curriculum.

- index cards - almost always cut them in half to get more for the money!
- colored card stock for making vocabulary flashcards and cards for other activities.
- one box, like a shoebox, for each child and Ziploc bags. You can use these to organize their flashcards. For example, the first flashcards they make will be for Lección 1 (which is Unit 1) vocabulary. Make a Ziploc bag for that. The next set they make is for Lección 1 verbs, so have a bag for those, and so on. They will use their flashcards for different activities throughout the program. (Often the flashcards are made and stored at home. So, teachers may suggest these items to parents for home organization.)
- dry erase squares and markers - you can also use scrap paper and pencil, but the kids really enjoy dry erase! I just get large dry erase posters and cut them into big squares. Less expensive!
- 2 flyswatters - for a Swat the Flies game (Matamoscas in Spanish.)
- large craft popsicle sticks - the optional Popsicle Stick Activity may come up in your lessons.
- about 2 dice per every 3 or 4 students.
- items to mark Bingo cards
- a large world map or globe - the optional Explore the World or Race Around the Spanish Speaking World may come up in your lessons.
